Our Media & Entertainment practice group was created to meet the demands and needs of clients in this sector, in order to provide specific legal advice and solutions, concerning audiovisual and phonographic production, television, social media, games, copyrights, intellectual property, image rights, among other issues.

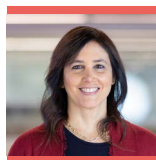

Our practice combines legal competence with a deep knowledge of the operation and particularities of the industry, offering domestic and foreign clients full and highly qualified legal assistance in all areas of law. Our professionals' expertise in mergers and acquisitions, foreign investment and all sorts of contracts applicable to the industry, including co-production contracts, sponsorship, development, licensing and assignment of rights agreements, among others, is certainly a differential that only a full-service law firm could offer.

TozziniFreire's professionals have a solid experience in different types of deals that involve media and entertainment, and have achieved significant results for national and international entertainment companies in cases encompassing television programs, reality shows, movies, fashion and sports events.
